Town Hall gets a boost

Community Preservation Committee votes to back the project

By Abigail Adams
aadams@wickedlocal.com

The Community Preservation Committee voted 5-1 last Thursday (Oct. 12) to endorse the current proposal for the Town Hall renovation project.

The Town Hall Renovation Advisory Committee (THRAC) attended that meeting to gauge the CPC's interest in helping to fund the estimated $12.8 million project. THRAC member Sam Wakeman filed a request for Community Preservation

THE ISSUE: Using money from the Community Preservation Fund to restore the old portion of Town Hall.

WHY IT MATTERS: With an estimated $12.8 million price tag, the town will be looking at various sources of funding.

Act funding in the amount of $7,578,208, which architects estimate would be the maximum amount of CPC funds eligible for the project, to spark the conversation with the committee.

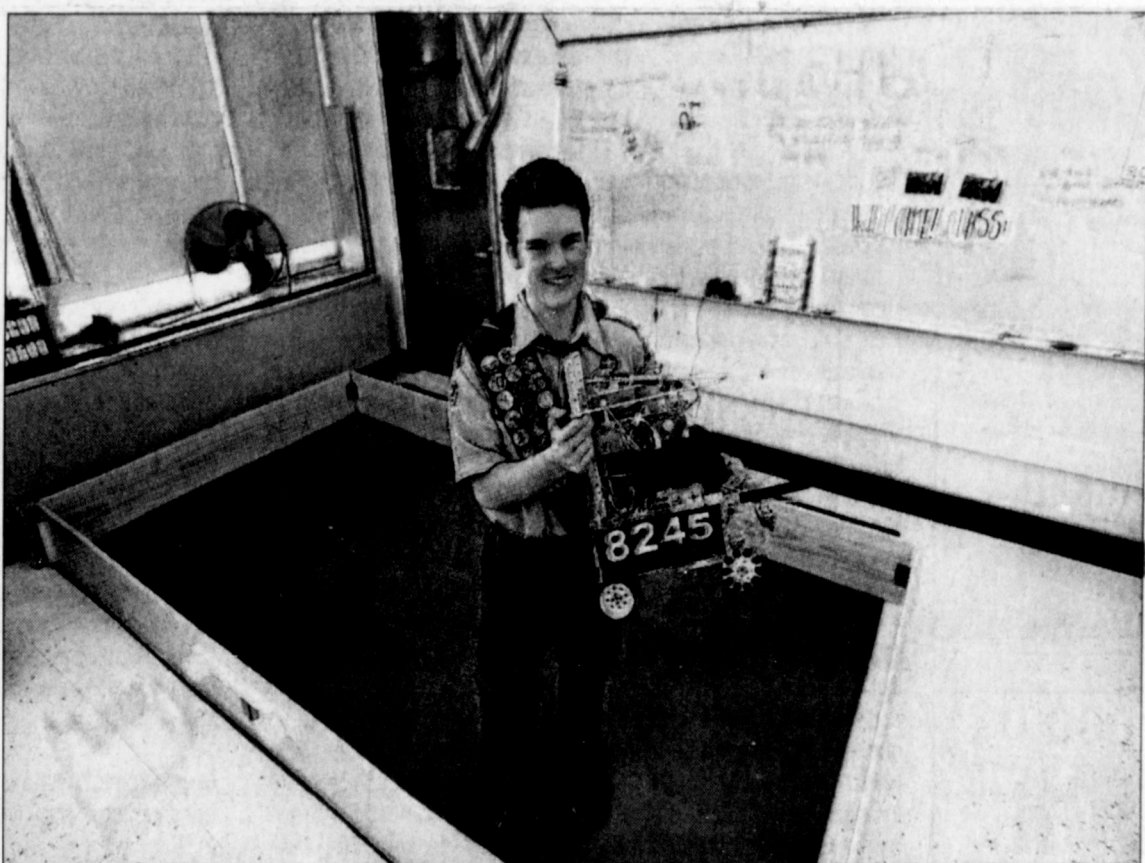

Among the committee members that approved of the current

Eagle Scout builds robotics practice field at CHS

Meet Sully Mulhern, one of the latest Eagle Scouts to emerge from Troop 28.

Since he was seven-years-old, Mulhern has been in love with the Boy Scout program. The 17-year-old senior at Cohasset High School recently decided to integrate his passion for computers and robotics into his Eagle Scout project, which he hopes will serve the school's robotics team for years to come.

Mulhern joined the robotics club at the Middle-High School in tenth grade but was unable to practice or compete due to the teachers' ongoing contract conflicts at the time. He rejoined the club in the eleventh grade and, with the help of the team's coach Laura Humphrey, became the only programmer on the team. But there was still one glaring issue - the team did not have a field to practice on.

"We didn't have a field ourselves," said Mulhern, "so when we would go to competitions, we would have to practice on the field there 10 minutes before the competition began."

That's when Mulhern said he was inspired to solve the problem.

Mulhern began fundraising for the project in May, which allowed him to begin the project itself in June. Prior to its commencement, Mulhern had to draw up a plan for his Eagle Scout project and present it to several of his superiors - including his Scout Master and Advisor, the Troop Committee, and the District Advancement Committee - for official approval.

Once approved, Mulhern began constructing his vision. The teen collected his supplies, with the help of donations, and began the building process, starting with sanding down the wood panels. Subsequently, Mulhern screwed spacers into place to help stabilize the structure.

Middle School tackles power of 'yet'

Sixth-grade seminar highlights social skills

By Abigail Adams
aadams@wickedlocal.com

Incorporating social-emotional learning into the curriculum is currently one of the core goals for Cohasset Public Schools. With the district's new sixth-grade seminar, many of those skills are now being integrated into the classroom.

The program, which is still in its infancy, was developed by middle school teachers Catherine Duggan and Erin Ryan, both of whom are enthusiastic about giving students the tools to survive middle school and beyond.

"We are just so thrilled to be able to devote this time every single day that we see these kids to introducing and practicing these skills so they can develop their own personalized skill set," said Ryan.

In her first five years with the district, Duggan noticed a number of students experiencing a heightened sense of stress and anxiety while in the classroom. According to Duggan, students' struggles with executive functioning can hinder their ability to learn, allowing the concept for sixth-grade seminar to bloom.

"When we came together to figure out what we wanted this program to look like, some of the big questions we asked ourselves were big things like what can we teach the kids to make middle school more manageable," said Duggan.

Driver cited after rear-ending fire truck

A 75-year-old woman received two traffic citations after police say she rear-ended a Cohasset fire engine, totaling her 2011 Lexus on Tuesday afternoon (Oct. 17).

Chief William Quigley said Cohasset's Engine 3 was leaving Sunrise Assisted Living on Route 3A around noon after responding to a medical aid call. The truck was turning left onto Route 3A, and a car stopped to let it through.

Quigley said the woman, who was driving behind the stopped car, swerved around it and then ran into the back of the engine. There were no injuries, but the front and driver's side of the Lexus sustained heavy damage.

"It actually peeled the skin of the door off and ripped the tire off," Quigley said. The driver was given a citation for a marked-lanes violation and following too closely on a state highway.

Engine 3 sustained damage to the rear bumper and some of the side compartments.

Route 3A was closed for about 40 minutes following the crash.

Teen arrested for alleged threats to harm other students with knife

Cohasset police arrested a 14-year old Cohasset Middle High School student on Friday (Oct. 13) at his home and charged him with making terroristic threats and 3-counts of threatening to commit a crime, police said.

Cohasset police allege that the suspect sent a number of text messages to his friends detailing how he wanted to harm other students with a knife.

When police became aware of these threats they immediately notified the school administration of the investigation and learned that the suspect had been released from school earlier in the day. Detectives then went to the suspect's home and arrested him.

Cohasset Police Chief William Quigley stated, "This is an ongoing investigation involving a juvenile. This department and the school department take these types of incidents very seriously and acted quickly to make sure everyone is safe."

The suspect was booked at the Cohasset Police Station and released to the custody of his parents. He was arraigned in Quincy Juvenile Court on Monday, Oct. 16.

Serious head-on crash on N. Main Street

Cohasset police responded to a 2-car crash on North Main Street by Dolan Lane on Friday the 13th at about 3:15 p.m.

When officers arrived, they found a 2015 Toyota sedan facing south in the north-bound lane. The Toyota had crossed from the south-bound lane into the north-bound lane and hit a 1989 Jeep Wrangler head-on, police said.

The driver of the Toyota, a 59-year-old Connecticut woman, had serious injuries and was transported to South Shore Hospital where she was transferred to Mass.

General Hospital. Police said she passed away on Sunday due to underlying medical issues not trauma from the accident. Her medical issues may have caused her to lose control of her car, police said.

The driver of the Jeep is 58-years of age and from Cohasset. He too was injured and transported to the hospital.

A section of North Main Street was closed for about 30-minutes while wreckers removed both vehicles. The operator of the Toyota was issued a citation for failure to drive in marked lanes, police said.

Industrial accident sends worker to hospital

By Mary Ford

Industrial accident

Police were called to an industrial accident that occurred Tuesday (Oct. 17) at around 3:30 p.m. on Black Rock Road. A 63-year-old painting contractor fell approximately 15 feet from a ladder and sustained traumatic injuries to his lower body, police said.

He was treated on scene by Cohasset Fire Department paramedics and transported to South Shore Hospital. OSHA and the Cohasset Building Inspector were called to the scene. OSHA has taken over jurisdiction of the accident and will be investigating. The injuries to the painter are non-life threatening, police said.

Road rage

Police got the plate number of a dark-colored Ford that was headed south and reportedly was operating erratically around 9:13 p.m. on Monday (Oct. 9) near the Greenbush station. An officer caught up with the operator, a 58-year-old Cohasset man at his home.

He was not impaired and explained that he thought the motorist behind him (who had called police) was following him and he was using evasive maneuvers to escape. Police also talked to the other operator. It was an unfortunate incident that had gotten out of hand, police said.

Arrest

Police arrested a 52-year-old Cohasset woman after she allegedly made a false report that her ex-husband had assaulted her on Tuesday (Oct. 10) around 12:26 a.m.

Caroline Wolfe of 46 Elm Ct. was charged with intimidating a witness and making a false report about a crime. She was arraigned later that morning in Quincy District Court.

Wolfe was arrested again on Wednesday (Oct. 11) on a warrant for a violation of the terms of her probation and was brought to Quincy District Court on the warrant.

Wolfe had been arrested the week before on the charge of vandalism after a witness allegedly saw her keying her ex-husband's Cadillac.

MVA

Two local teens were involved in an accident by the Old Colony Place shopping plaza on Chief Justice Cushing Highway on Tuesday (Oct. 10) around 6:49 a.m.

A 16-year-old Norwell boy in a 2007 Lincoln sedan was headed north when a 2015 Jeep Patriot, operated by a 19-year-old Marshfield woman pulled out of the shopping center to make a left and was hit broadside by the Lincoln.

Both drivers were shaken up but uninjured. Both vehicles were towed and the Marshfield woman was cited for failure to yield to oncoming traffic, police said.

MVA

A 70-year-old East Bridgewater man in a 2015 Mitsubishi sedan was attempting to turn right from Chief Justice Cushing

Highway onto Crocker Lane when he collided with a 2016 Toyota sedan that was attempting to illegally pass him on the right, police said. The accident took place on Thursday (Oct. 12) around 2:30 p.m.

The Toyota was operated by a 43-year-old Weymouth woman who is being summoned to court to face the charges of unlicensed operation and failure to drive in marked lanes. A passenger in the Toyota was able to drive the car. Damage was minor to both vehicles.

A 2007 Hyundai, operated by a 27-year-old Scituate woman, had stopped at the lights at Chief Justice Cushing Highway and Beechwood Street, headed north, when hit from behind by a 2014 BMW, operated by a 47-year-old Cohasset man. The Cohasset man, who

Storytellers become a community of friends

Three-week workshop was remarkable learning experience

By Louisa Kasdon
Special to the Mariner

It began on a fine Sunday afternoon. A group of strangers, each with a story to tell. Curious yet willing to share a piece of their life that would culminate in a free, public Moth-Inspired story telling performance on October 21st, this coming Sunday at the Cohasset Library at 4 p.m. Each member of the workshop will tell a 5-minute story, with-out notes, in front of an audience. I am honored to be one of the workshop participants.

Gina James from Grub Street, an ebullient, talented teaching professional, a high-energy serial-storyteller and a leader of the MOTH community in the Boston area, has helped those strangers craft their stories and become a community of friends. It takes talent and trust. Gina has exhibited both in ample measure.

The room was cheery but tense at the first of the three Sundays. People who didn't know each other getting ready to share a story about something that felt powerful and intimate in their lives.

Harvey wanted to tell a story about a paranormal force that shaped his career as a physician. Alix wanted to explain a miraculous coincidence revealed when she and her husband became engaged. Michael was struggling with a story about a co-worker who had become handicapped and how that experience long ago was a lens for his own current struggles. David chose a story about being booted out of the Boy Scouts as a 13-year old became a trajectory for his own code of conduct.

Originally, I wanted to tell a story about an encounter with a gorilla in Rwanda, until it became clear that the story was not about the gorilla at all.

Gina began with having the group listen to several Moth-Inspired stories recently performed. As one often does, the whole class shared a "drive-way moment" as a group.

We couldn't turn away. The emotional arc of the story grabbed each of us hard. Gina de-constructed each story, explaining the key elements of turning an anecdote into a concise, affecting oral story. And then she divided the group into "partners" where each member of the duo told their story, and each partner presented the other's concept in brief to the group. This was hard work. Entrusting your story to a stranger, allowing them to present and critique it, and wondering if the tale was worth anyone's time, even your own.

We went home with the assignment to work on our stories, share them with our story-buddy via email and distill them into approximately 20 bullet points. The mental exercise was also an emotional journey that threaded its way through our consciousness in the interval. What is worth telling? Who will care? Why am I doing this?

The next session began with an invited storyteller, a Moth veteran, Julie Baker who allowed us to workshop an upcoming piece she would be telling at a Halloween-themed story slam. The story was wonderful, funny, affecting -- in all the ways a story can be. As we were invited to critique Julie's story, we gained tools to critique our own. The exercise was to tell each story in three sentences, and boil it down to its three-minute essential. What to include? What delicious but non-essential details to junk?

Next Sunday is our moment. Our cheerleader Gina tells us that we will be "great"! Individually we are not so sure. Be certain of one thing: when you come next Sunday to listen to our five-minute stories as relaxed as we all may seem, there is nothing casual about preparing for telling a Moth-Inspired story to real people, sitting expectantly in front of you, hoping desperately to give them a "driveway moment."

AROUND TOWN

Helping with hospital toy drive

JENNIFER PIEPENBRINK

For Joseph

Hi Cohasset: I wanted to start in this week's column a story about a handsome, sweet and inspiring young man from here in town who has fought more in his young life than you can imagine.

Joseph Dietrich had his first hospital stay at Boston Children's Hospital in 2014. He had a brain tumor, a nightmare that his amazing parents, Heidi and Fran, could not believe and his family were all in shock. The community rallied and supported them and one determined, strong and unbelievable little guy came through it all. Joseph spent a lot of time, as do so many children, using the Child Life Services programs at Children's Hospital. For 3 years, in lieu of gifts for himself, Joseph has asked for Lego donations for children in the hospital which are brought into Child Life Services.

Just recently, Joseph was diagnosed with another brain tumor so in honor of his 9th birthday on October 24th, it is time to go bigger with the Boston Children's Hospital Child Life Services Toy Drive! Small to medium-sized Lego sets are very manageable in a hospital bed and were so loved by Joseph.

As of right now with more to come (follow @Josephsmiracle on Facebook for a complete list of gift ideas) you can drop off unwrapped gifts at Shoe Market Kids, 790 Chief Justice Cushing Highway, Cohasset. If you are not nearby you can make out a check to Child Life Services and in the memo write, "Joseph's bday." Mail to Boston's Children's Hospital. Attn: Child Life Services, 300 Longwood Ave, Boston, MA 02115. Any and all donations are greatly appreciated.

You never know when life will change and Boston Children's Hospital is one of those amazing places that we have to keep our children (and us) as strong and recovering with a great team of professionals day in and day out. Thank you Joseph for what you are doing, Happy early birthday and we are supporting and thinking of you every day... you got this big guy! 1-4-3.

SUNY Oswego

Congratulations to Elizabeth Suzedell, a first-year student at SUNY Oswego. Elizabeth is majoring in meteorology and was awarded a Presidential Scholarship and a Destination Oswego Scholarship as well. The award recognizes past academic achievements and potential for success. Your family is so proud Elizabeth, great work and best of luck as you keep moving forward.

Open house

Guess what Cohasset? It is Fire Prevention Month and the Cohasset Fire Department is holding its annual Open House tomorrow, Oct 21st from 12 to 4 p.m. This special day, one that my own kids remember from when they were young, is a fun way for children and adults to learn about fire safety and meet our firefighters. Everyone is welcome and the fire apparatus will be out for the children to sit in. Bring your appetites as well! Papa Gino's pizza and other food and drinks will be served during the event. Bring the family and head on down!

Top student

Another great bit of news to share is a congratulations to Ciara Carlyle, a student at Notre Dame Academy who was named a Semi-Finalist in the 2018 National Merit Scholarship Program. What an amazing accomplishment Ciara that you should be so proud of, your family certainly is as well. Nice work.

Loyola

Way to go for Liam McDonald who is now a member of the class of 2021 at Loyola University Maryland! Congratulations Liam and we look forward to hearing more news about your year.

LIFE AT CHS

'Frenchies' have arrived in town

KATE QUIGLEY

Mornings at CHS are often slow. A line of students outside of the office toting coffees waiting for tardy passes is a normal occurrence. Recently many students have been complaining that the school clocks and bells are two minutes fast, causing students to arrive after the final bell, be late for their first class, and potentially be penalized by having to miss practice that day.

Aside from this, the past two weeks have been busy for all students at CHS, especially seniors. Last minute college interviews have been scheduled by many, and numerous tours and information sessions are being attended in the weeks before the November 1st deadline.

I myself was visiting and interviewing last week, and missed class Thursday and Friday. As November 1st approaches, it's not just the seniors who are scrambling to finish applications by the early deadline, teachers and guidance counselors alike rush to send off their college recommendation letters.

I know I speak for all my classmates when I say that I cannot wait for November 1st to pass. Not only will the stress of the senior class reduce dramatically, but the topic of conversation around the halls will hopefully no longer be all about colleges and transcripts and letters and GPAs.

As for CHS's underclassmen, the nearing of the end to quarter one brings quarter exams, Palmieri papers, and Euro papers.

On a lighter note, the biennial French Exchange occurs this year and roughly 20 French students from an area just south of Paris arrived Wednesday evening. The "Frenchies" will stay with Cohasset students for about two weeks and attend one class each day then go on daily excursions into Boston and places like Martha's Vineyard and Plymouth Plantation.

On the weekends the French students will spend time in Cohasset and experience an American lifestyle. On an even lighter note, the exchange reminds me, along with many other CHS students, that I will be going to France in April on this same exchange program, this is one of the many things getting me through the stressful application process.

CHS athletics have once again had a successful few weeks. Field Hockey played 5 games last week, one a rematch against Dennis-Yarmouth, sadly the team lost, but kept their undefeated league record. Boys Soccer now 15-0 played a tough match against Norwell on Wednesday. Although some of the members of the team were nervous, many of the seniors knew that they needed to play an equally talented team to prepare them for tournament season.

Girls Soccer continues to fight to stay on the number two spot in the South Shore League in order to automatically qualify for tournament. Just in case, the team focused on beating Mashpee on Monday and working on the fundamentals for Norwell, a non-league team that CHS GS has lost to for the past few years, and Wayland, a North Shore team that the girls have never competed against.

To the students of CHS, remember that this stressful period of college deadlines and end of the quarter examinations will soon pass and use the thought of Thanksgiving break to motivate you to finish the quarter strong.

Cohasset artists welcome all to the third annual Open Studios Tour

By Joan Kovaach
Special to the Mariner

What if you could get up on a Saturday or Sunday morning and decide, today is about art.

I'm just going to walk around this lovely town of Cohasset and look at art, visit artists' studios, meet and talk with artists, learn about how they do their work?

On November 18 and 19 you can do just that, when local artists host the Cohasset Open Studios. This is the third year of this delightful event, and the list of artists showing their work and welcoming folks into their studios has grown each year.

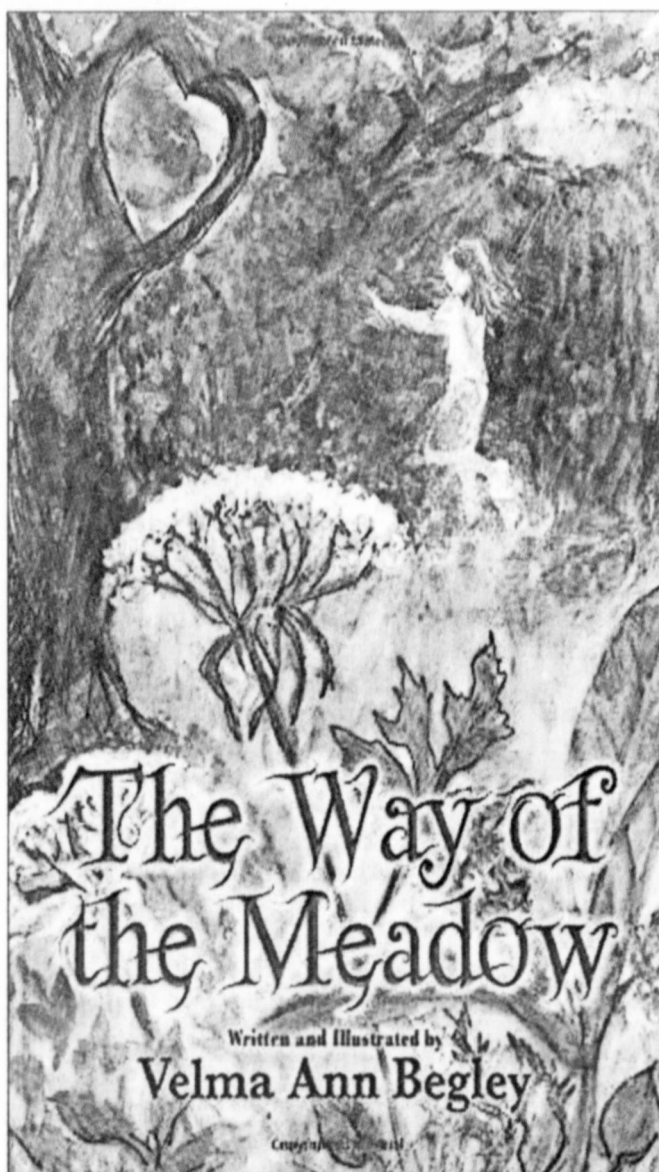

Multiple artists along North and South Main Street, King Street and James Lane will greet art tourists in their live, working environments. Many more will have their works on display in the Cohasset Recreation Department space inside the Paul Pratt Memorial Library.

Velma Ann Begley, an artist showing her work again this year at the Library, creates her work by merging a love for science and art and a desire to appeal to and inform young nature lovers or those only young at heart.

"Through my pencil and watercolor sketches, prose and poetry I have imagined many of my observations into illustrated, original, fantasy and fairy tales and fun little verses," Begley says. Two of the books she has created, "Into the Write Light" and "The Way into The Meadow" as well as her individual sketches, watercolors and art work will be available at the library display.

Stephen Sheffield will open his 277 South Main Street Fine Art Photography and Mixed Media studio for November's art tour for the first time this year. Sheffield has said in an interview that he became a photographer because as a painting major at Cornell he "became impatient with the medium, and to be honest I wasn't very good at it!"

Thus began his work with collage and photography — good news for the many who appreciate his work. Sheffield has exhibited nationally for many years and has a number of permanent large-scale art commissions in Boston, Connecticut, Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh.

When not creating his own work, he teaches as faculty at the New Hampshire Institute of Art MFA Program. He ran the advanced fine art black and white department at the New England School of Photography in Boston for 12 years. His fine art photography is represented in Boston by the Panopticon Gallery.

It's a short ride or a long brisk walk from Sheffield's studio to Jocelyn Dana Thomas's 27 King Street open studio. Thomas will give this year's art tourists the opportunity to see how she works in oil, acrylic, and watercolor, creating pieces often inspired by what she sees while out walking near her Cohasset home.

Thomas, who grew up in Aroostook County, Maine, also has a love of outdoors and nature. She left home to roam the Wyoming, California and Washington states, eventually finding her home in Cohasset. Those travels and the opportunity to live in Basel, Switzerland for a year have left her with ties to all these places, and she documents this through painting and other forms of art.

Thomas says, "I capture my feelings, celebrations, sense of humor and the places and people and things I love and my reflection on things I miss... in my work." Twelve of her paintings inspired by her Cohasset walks currently hang in Simply Smith's Restaurant in Cohasset.

Thomas also creates jewelry. She makes the fused glass earrings she calls eye candy by cutting glass and firing it in her kiln above 1500 degrees to produce multiple colors. The glass cools slowly to ensure stability and from this she forms unique, durable pieces.

Continuing on to 125 King Street, you'll be able to take in a mural project, the work of artists residing at Sunrise Cohasset Senior Living in collaboration with Cohasset High School students. More information about the Sunrise artist and CHS students who worked on the project will follow in one of the upcoming articles about this exciting weekend of local art.

Ziggy is as sweet as pumpkin pie!

By Jamie Baranow

This week we have Ziggy in the spotlight. He is a male brown and black tabby cat with white markings and the most charming little white paws. He is approximately 1-year-old and while this guy is still small, his personality is huge. Even for a kitty just brought into a shelter setting which can be quite overwhelming, he still has the sweetest temperament and just wants to be loved.

Ziggy has not had an easy life as he had to be in survival mode while alone on the streets. His luck turned when he was found by kind people after he had been wandering around their neighborhood. You would never believe his story based on his personality and when you pick him up he puts his head on your chest and you will instantly fall for him.

Ziggy is neutered and ready to head home. He is as sweet as a pumpkin pie and he has so much love to give; all he needs now is a forever home and family to bring it home to.

You can learn more about Ziggy and all of the other cats that we have available for adoption by visiting us online or at 487 Nantasket Ave. in Hull. Open hours are Mondays 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and Saturdays 2 to 3 p.m. If these times do not work for you, you can contact our adoption coordinator at 781-534-4902.

We are having a Halloween adult costume party on Saturday, October 28th from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Red Parrot in Hull. This is a fundraiser and tickets are $20. There will be dancing, DJ, appetizers, cash bar, 50/50 raffle, and prizes for best costumes. Admission and money raised goes directly to making sure that every furry resident is fed, healthy, and able to find a forever home as well as ensuring that we don't ever need to turn away cats in need.

We hope you'll hop on your broom and fly on over to join us for a purr-fectly FUN night out. Have some drinks, grab a bite to eat and dance the night away all while saving cats. All are welcome. Don't miss out; grab your tickets now at www.hsar.org.

Three long-time town employees retire

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

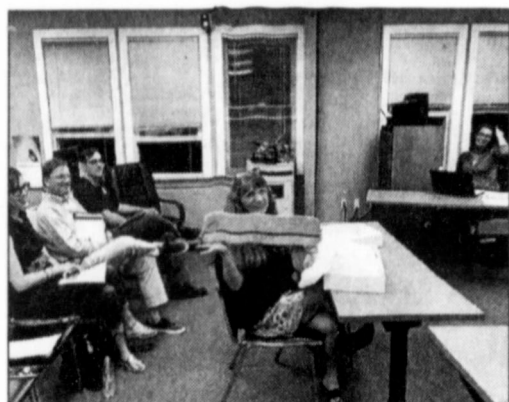

In the span of roughly eight weeks, three of Cohasset's long-serving employees have chosen to step down from their positions and begin their retirement. At the last Board of Selectmen meeting (Oct. 10), Town Manager Chris Senior took time to recognize the three women and their notable efforts to help better the town for years to come.

Mary Gallagher (Town Accountant)

Gallagher has worked for the town twice after spending more than 30 years working with municipal accounting. After nearly 20 years with the Town of Scituate, Gallagher began her most recent stint with Cohasset in 2012 where she helped Cohasset stabilize its financial status, something Senior said cannot be acknowledged enough.

As Senior noted, Gallagher brought friendliness, sensibility, and resourcefulness to the table during a time of turmoil both in the town and across the country and leaves the town considerably more confident in their current financial status.

"She leaves us in AAA shape and we wish her a AAA retirement," said Senior. "She has certainly earned it."

Gallagher's replacement, former Stoneham Town Accountant Donald Piatt, is set to take over her role on Monday, Oct. 30.

Ellen Warner (Administrative Assistant)

Warner has spent the last 13 years of her career working in Cohasset's assessor's office, where Senior said her remarkable ethics and integrity have truly shined. Her stellar customer service skills along with her willingness to help manage the changes over the years, according to Senior, are just some of the highlights of her plethora of skills she brought to the table.

Since 2004, Senior said that Warner has been a "welcoming face and a knowledgeable representative of the town," and hopes to recognize her formally at a future Board of Selectmen meeting.

Jo-Ann Pilczak (Manager of Permitting and Inspections)

In her 13 years with the town, Pilczak helped make a number of significant changes to Cohasset's planning department with her keen attention to detail. According to Senior, Pilczak's outstanding organization and loyalty to the town "made herself an extremely valuable part of the team."

As she leaves her post with the town, Senior said her unique attributes "are already extraordinarily missed" as she sails off into the sunset - literally - with her husband by her side. Senior hopes to recognize her formally at a Board of Selectmen meeting in the spring.

BOOST

proposal for the Town Hall project was CPC Chair Russ Bonetti, who felt investing in this project would be a smart investment of the committee's funds.

"I think it is something we absolutely have to get involved with," he said. "Where is the money coming from is the first question. It is something that is going to affect a lot of people."

Alongside other town officials, THRAC is currently attempting to determine how to best fund the multi-million dollar project. The CPC funds, which would have to be applied to the renovations of the historic Town Hall by statute, would cover much of the necessary work to restore the 170-year-old structure. Town Manager Chris Senior noted that this would not be the first time the CPC has committed to funding a long-term project.

However, rather than wiping out the CPC's funding capabilities for the next several years, THRAC is looking into a potential 20-year plan including borrowing, according to Senior.

CPC Vice Chair Tom Reardon felt handcuffing the funds entirely to the project would have restricted the committee for years to come.

"There is always going to be stuff that comes up and you want to be able to respond to that and you don't want to be tied down," Reardon said.

One of program's main focuses is encouraging students to adopt and follow what is known as a "growth mindset," which promotes the power of positive and flexible thinking while approaching challenges as opportunities for success.

Instead of telling themselves they are unable to do something, students are encouraged to tell themselves that they simply cannot do so yet and work toward bettering themselves, as opposed to feeling inadequate about their abilities. Ryan dubbed it the power of "yet" and said students have already caught on to the concept.

Throughout the duration of the course students are taught several other soft skills including organization, time management, and following a routine. Digital citizenship is also highlighted in the course as Duggan and Ryan look to teach students how to stay safe online as well as proper online etiquette.

Students who take the seminar are also encouraged to practice self-advocacy and speak up for themselves when they feel they are in need of extra help.

Finding time during the school day to teach students these valuable skills, according to Superintendent Louise Demas, is a step forward for the district as administrators continue to look for new ways to integrate social-emotional learning into the school's curricula. Ryan said giving students these tools is important as some students struggling with their executive functions either tune out or simply refuse to take school seriously otherwise.

"When you look at all of these skills, these are vital skills," said Ryan, "and they are not just for academics, but they are professional skills as well."

The program, which rotates students through the year, was highlighted at the Sept. 20 School Committee meeting when Duggan and Ryan presented their progress to members of the committee and the public.

Their efforts were applauded by several administrators and School Committee members, including Barbara Stefan, who was pleased to see more social-emotional learning skills being implemented throughout the district, something she said can be a powerful tool for students to harness.

Both Ryan and Duggan said the skills students learn in the seminar will not only help them in middle school, but may also help lead them to a brighter future.

"Hopefully, if we can emphasize all of these skills and give the students an opportunity to learn about them and practice them and do activities to drive them home, their lives in middle school and their transition into middle school will be easier and will set them up for more success in the future," said Duggan.

BREAKING NEWS...

World's #2 Smartest Man Reveals Secret

"Genius Pill"

Supercharge your brain and think better than ever.

BREAKING NEWS: He has one of the highest IQ scores ever recorded.

He beats Einstein and Stephen Hawking in the genius directory.

Yet you have probably never heard of Rick Rosner, officially the world's second smartest man.

Some experts say it's because his intelligence was almost by accident, the result of an unusual "smart pill" he takes every morning.

And he agrees. "This pill makes my brain work better," says Rosner. "By preventing or slowing the brain's inevitable aging process, it's sort of like being smarter."

New Brain-Booster Flying Off Shelves

Al Sears, M.D., recently released a brain-boosting supplement based on this pill that has become so popular, he's having trouble keeping it in stock.

Dr. Sears is the author of over 500 scientific papers on anti-aging and recently spoke at the WPBF 25 Health & Wellness Festival featuring Dr. Oz and special guest Suzanne Somers. Thousands of people listened to Dr. Sears speak on his anti-aging breakthroughs and attended his book signing at the event.

All told, 27,432 bottles of this pill have been sold — and everyone who takes it reports similar mind-blowing results.

Multiple Studies With Shocking Results

One study found it doubled the memory and cognitive function of 430 patients in just 24 weeks. Another study published in Neurology found it not only stopped age-related brain shrinkage in over a thousand seniors, it even boosted brain size, especially in the brain's memory center.

Researchers at a prestigious California university analyzed brain scans from 265 seniors who took this smart pill and compared the group to the placebo and found on average, this made their brains 28 years younger. And that's with just a single weekly dose. Imagine what it could do for you if you took it every day!

One of Dr. Sears' patients from West Palm Beach, Florida, was very concerned when his memory started slipping. "I was worried when I started blanking out on things that used to be routine. All those 'senior moments' started way too young. But they suddenly stopped when I started taking Omega Rejuvenol! Now, I feel my focus and memory are back at age-30 levels."

And then there's Pete, age 69, who had suffered from progressively weaker memory for 11 years. At one point he was unable to remember his locker combination. But within four months of taking this smart pill, he's now a math wizard. In fact, he went back to work as a CPA at a large corporation.

The best part is, the supplement has no adverse side effects, you don't need a prescription or a doctor's visit, and it's 100% natural.

Powerful 'Nootropic' Vital To Brain Health

"Omega Rejuvenol is a true wonder drug for brain health," said Dr. Sears. "This 'nootropic' substantially increases brain volume while supporting mental sharpness and memory."

"The key ingredient of my smart pill is a little-known fatty acid called DHA. Scientists are just beginning to recognize this nutrient as the world's most powerful 'nootropic.'"

Your brain is almost entirely made up of fats, 60% of which is DHA. And DHA is essential because it helps your brain grow new branches and renew and rejuvenate itself so you can keep your brain power and sharp thinking.

Top scientists acknowledge we don't get enough DHA in our modern diet. Over the last several decades, our food supply has dramatically changed. DHA is no longer as available as it used to be, not even in fish oil or fish.

The Search For Better DHA

So Dr. Sears went looking for better, more concentrated sources of omega-3 DHA. And he found it where nobody else was looking... literally at the bottom of the earth.

THESE STATEMENTS HAVE NOT BEEN EVALUATED BY THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION. THIS PRODUCT IS NOT INTENDED TO DIAGNOSE, TREAT, CURE OR PREVENT ANY DISEASE. RESULTS MAY VARY FROM PERSON TO PERSON. NO INDIVIDUAL RESULT SHOULD BE SEEN AS TYPICAL.

Dr. Al Sears with fellow physician Dr. Oz at the WPBF 25 Health & Wellness Festival held recently in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida.

Krill are tiny shrimp-like creatures that swim in huge biomasses in the pure, cold waters near the South Pole.

Nature magazine hails them as the basic source of energy for almost all marine life in the world's oceans.

It turns out that DHA found in krill oil is able to penetrate into nearly every cell in your body in a far superior way than fish oil.

In a study published in Nutrition Research, krill oil, fish oil and olive oil were compared to see which one raised omega-3 levels higher.

Seventy-six people took 2 grams of krill oil, fish oil or olive oil every day for four weeks — then their omega-3 levels were tested. The results were surprising, to say the least.

Those taking olive oil saw their omega-3s rise 2.9%. Those taking fish oil saw their omega-3s rise 131.8%. But those taking krill oil saw their omega-3s skyrocket 178.4%. That's 30% MORE omega-3s absorbed from krill oil than from fish oil!

Second Source Of Rare, Potent DHA

Omega Rejuvenol also includes a second unique source of omega-3. The Argentinian squid thrives by the billions in the icy, pure waters off the tip of South America.

What got Dr. Sears' attention is this mighty mollusk is loaded with DHA. "After this special squid oil is processed, it delivers over 65% DHA — the highest concentration of DHA ever achieved in natural medicine!" said Dr. Sears.

DHA is a lifesaver because every one of your cells has built-in receptors that absorb it, and every one of your cells craves it. Fueling your body with high levels of DHA can do wonders for your health, and your brain in particular.

With this first-ever combination, you can flood every cell in your brain with the world's most powerful "nootropic" and get the full range of brain-boosting benefits it has to offer.

Where To Find Omega Rejuvenol

Right now, the only way to get this powerful one-two punch for a sharp memory and brain-boosting benefits is with Dr. Sears' breakthrough Omega Rejuvenol formula.

To secure bottles of this hot, new nootropic, buyers should contact the Sears Health Hotline at 1-888-355-0756 within the next 48 hours. "It takes time to get bottles shipped out to drug stores," said Dr. Sears. "The Hotline allows us to ship the product directly to the customer."

Dr. Sears feels so strongly about this product, he offers a 100%, money-back guarantee on every order. "Just send me back the bottle and any unused product within 90 days, and I'll send you your money back," said Dr. Sears.

The Hotline will be taking orders for the next 48 hours. After that, the phone number will be shut down to allow them to restock.

OUR VIEW

Amazon and the South Shore

Weymouth's pitch to land Amazon's second headquarters has been raising eyebrows around New England as the South Shore, once an afterthought for most major corporations, appears poised to change forever.

A second Amazon headquarters could employ upwards of 50,000 people.

Amazon is looking for a 100-acre site with utilities and access to mass transit, and the former South Weymouth Naval Air Station, now known as Union Point, is able to provide those accommodations.

Selectmen in Rockland and Abington have joined with Union Point and Weymouth officials in the sales pitch to Amazon, and the rewards wouldn't just be in jobs at Amazon.

Up to $5 billion could be invested back into the South Shore, according to Amazon company officials, if the new headquarters comes to Weymouth, and the jobs Amazon brings to Union Point would be both high-tech and high-paying.

Union Point is also within 30 minutes of a major city, and an international airport, which not only meets but exceeds Amazon's criteria for a new headquarters.

If Amazon comes to Weymouth, both anything and everything is possible.

Propositions like widening Route 3 and extending the MBTA Red Line would all of a sudden be in play.

Housing markets in surrounding towns would rebound, and many South Shore towns, which are more affordable than other parts of the state, would see themselves becoming more desirable locations.

The influx of new residents, and a better paid workforce, would also bring about a boon for the local economy.

Local businesses would directly benefit from Amazon's move to Weymouth, and it wouldn't take long for them to start seeing the profits.

Everything from pizzerias to ice cream shops to car dealerships would be in line for increased profits.

Weymouth isn't the only town in play, however, and several other communities have been openly making pitches to the company for the new headquarters since the request for proposal process opened.

Most notably, Boston is in the running for the new headquarters, with a proposal from the Lawrence, Haverhill and North Andover area being put forth.

The South Shore has long been waiting for a company like Amazon to make a home in the neighborhood.

Amazon would allow educated millennials from the South Shore to stay close to home, rather than leaving for places like New York City and Boston.

The South Shore's potential, natural beauty, and proximity to the hustle and bustle of urban amenities should give Weymouth an edge over Boston in the final decision, but nothing is set in stone yet.

One thing is sure, however, if Amazon ends up in Weymouth, they'll do more than just build a place to work: they'll transform an entire region.

Most notably, Boston is in the running for the new headquarters, with a proposal from the Lawrence, Haverhill and North Andover area being put forth.

Bylaw would prevent clear cutting and massive blasting

Citizens for Cohasset's Future has proposed a law that would force developers to build in a manner that preserves neighborhoods and ends clear cutting and massive blasting on UNDEVELOPED land only (it would NOT impact current homes or homeowners).

A lot can happen in a few months. The speed of development — which in this town is largely speculative and driven by non-Cohasset developers — has increased dramatically.

Look around your neighborhood at the "for sale" signs on undeveloped lots — on North Main Street and Forest Avenue and Jerusalem Lane and Howe Road. Look and see what the future will be for those neighborhoods if we don't act now.

The citizens of the town see an urgent crisis. They are asking the town to react accordingly. Bottom line: It is within the Selectmen's power to allow the town to vote on this issue at our next Special Town Meeting and not to wait for an unspecified future meeting to take action. Ask them not postpone such an important vote.

Loss of trees in town is huge concern

The following was sent as an open letter to Town Manager Chris Senior:

Dear Mr. Senior, This town has been my home mostly since 1920 — 97 years — and I am desperately concerned with its severe loss of trees lately. I helped start the Conservation Committee with the Selectmen years ago and served as its first Secretary for ten years with Chairman George Benedict. Now, I'm worried about the loss of loveliness to our land.

I think about the continued loss of trees on:

a. The late John Hayes' lot off Beechwood street (now containing 50 houses).

b. The late Polly Logan's and another sizable lot in development on Nichols Road.

c. The recent loss of five large trees on Red Gate Lane.

d. The tree loss on Jerusalem Road, corner of Rust Way.

e. The recent loss of a sizable tree on Ripley Road.

I traverse these roads constantly and note the tree stumps, but other parts of town I don't see but suspect the same damage may be occurring in parts there.

The addition of Article XVIII to the next Town Meeting Warrant is essential. It deals with undeveloped land only, and we need the town's vote desperately.

This note is being sent to the board of Selectmen also, Mr. Senior. Thank you for your consideration.

Time and the bulldozer are marching on!

Myth-busting Mass.' recreational pot laws

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

With recreational marijuana now legal across the state of Massachusetts, residents and police departments alike have struggled to understand the full scope of the new legislation. While Question 4 originally provided a clear outline of what would be implemented should it pass, state legislators had the opportunity to make any alterations to the law they deemed necessary. As a result, the limits of the new legal pot law have become blurred, causing confusion throughout the state.

Now, Cohasset officials are looking to propose two different warrant articles for the 2018 Annual Town Meeting to restrict marijuana laws in Cohasset — one banning retail pot shops in town and another banning it from public use. Yet a number of misconceptions about the current status of the law still remain for many Cohasset residents as the town inches closer to proposing its own marijuana bylaws:

Myth: Consuming marijuana in public is still illegal.

Fact: Cities and towns must pass a bylaw prohibiting public use of marijuana.

Among the nine states that have legalized marijuana, Massachusetts and Colorado are unique in allowing public consumption to some degree. The other seven states — Maine, Oregon, Washington, California Nevada, Alaska, and the District of Columbia — do not permit marijuana to be consumed publicly.

In Massachusetts, municipalities have the option to pass a zoning bylaw to prohibit the action which would require a two-thirds majority to pass. Until then, it is not considered an arrestable offense.

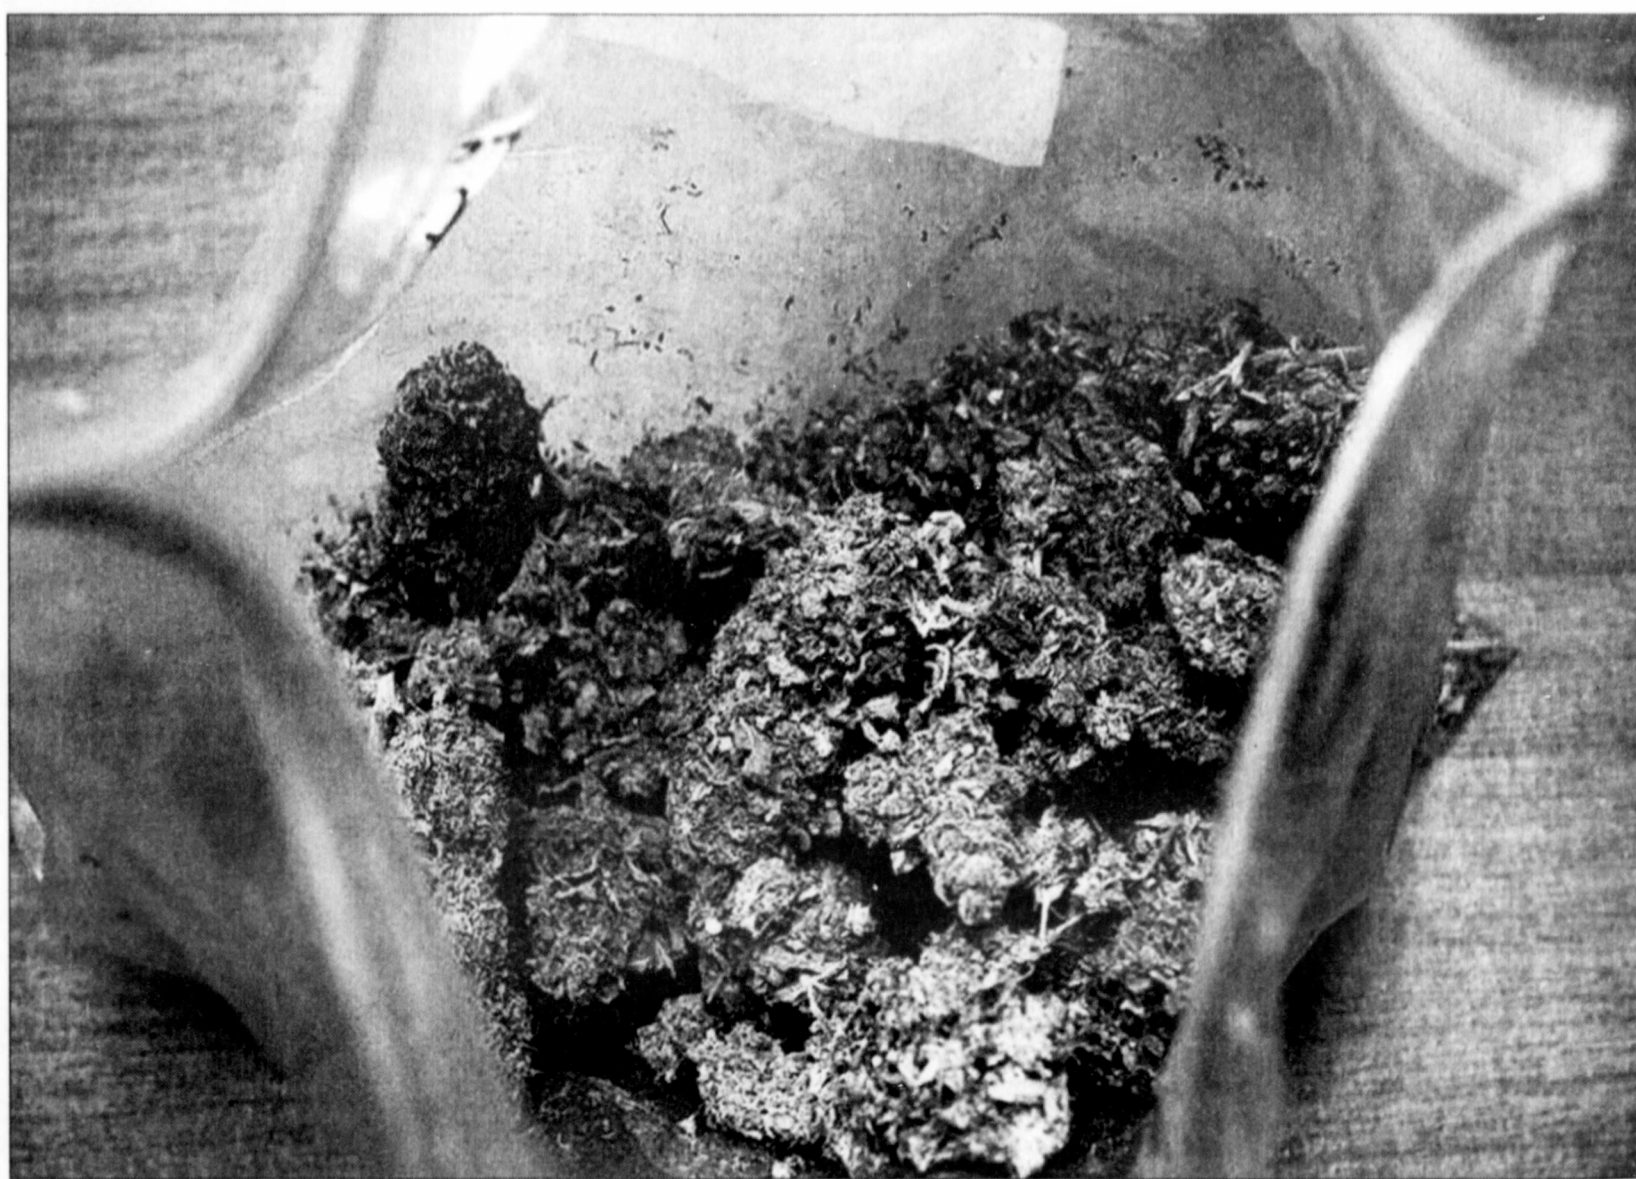

However, there are still limits to where pot can be consumed in public areas. For instance, marijuana cannot be consumed within 300 feet of a school or within 100 feet of a public park, both of which are still considered felonies.

Additionally, pot cannot be consumed while operating a motor vehicle as doing so is considered operating under the influence.

Myth: Municipalities may opt to ban marijuana possession and consumption in their community.

Fact: Municipalities may opt to ban retail pot shops from their community.

Similar to consuming pot in public, municipalities also have the option to pass a bylaw that would ban the sale of retail marijuana. Cohasset residents approved of a 14-month moratorium on the sale of recreational marijuana at the 2017 Annual Town Meeting on May 1. There is currently a statewide moratorium on recreational pot sales until July 1, 2018.

Cohasset and other communities are grappling with the new state law legalizing recreational marijuana. (WICKED LOCAL PHOTO)

At least six of the other states that have legalized marijuana for recreational purposes allow for similar bans to be put in place, four of which do so by county. Opponents of the ban often argue municipalities will lose out on a major source of revenue with retail pot sales, yet proponents often counter that it is not only unsafe for public health but may also lead many to believe that there are no physical effects of using the substance.

A ban on the sale of retail marijuana was recently approved in the town of Milford where 52 percent of voters approved of Question 4. Norwell and Pembroke have also banned the sale of retail marijuana.

Myth: Marijuana plants can be grown anywhere on one's property.

Fact: Marijuana plants must be grown in a secured location and may not be visible from a public space.

Although it is legal to grow up to six plants in Massachusetts, there are still limits as to where the plants can be grown.

To grow marijuana in the state, plants must be located in a secure location indoors and should not be visible from public spaces with the use of any sort of optical aid such as binoculars or a camera.

Unlike states like Maine, Oregon, and Alaska, recreational marijuana cannot be grown outdoors in Massachusetts. California and Colorado also forbid residents from growing marijuana outside, even if it is on their own property. In Nevada, outdoor growing operations must be contained to an enclosed, secure space. Growing marijuana is still not permitted in general in the District of Columbia.

Myth: Operating a motor vehicle under the influence of marijuana is treated the same as driving under the influence of alcohol.

Fact: Driving under the influence of marijuana is much harder for law enforcement to prove than driving under the influence of alcohol.

Although it may now be legal to consume recreationally, it is still illegal to operate a motor vehicle while under the influence of marijuana.

The problem for law enforcement, however, has come in the form of a recent ruling for the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court where it was determined that although field sobriety tests are considered scientific indicators of alcohol intoxication, there is a lack of scientific consensus that field sobriety tests can definitively prove a person is intoxicated by marijuana.

While officers may be permitted to describe how the driver acted during field sobriety tests in the court of law, they may not label it as a test nor can they testify that a defendant driver failed.

Law enforcement is also forbidden from pulling over a motor vehicle simply due to the smell of either raw or burnt marijuana and, according to police, must rely on erratic driving as probable cause to stop a motor vehicle for suspicion of driving under the influence of marijuana.

Myth: Limits on recreational marijuana possession are similar, if not equal, to that of medical marijuana.

Fact: Limits on marijuana possession vary between recreational and medical marijuana.

In Massachusetts, it is now legal to possess up to one ounce of recreational marijuana. Of that ounce, owners are allowed up to five grams of marijuana concentrate which includes substances such as hash, oil, wax, and "budder" among other forms. Massachusetts' medical marijuana laws, however, allow cardholders to possess up to ten ounces of pot every 60 days, or every two months.

Although limits to medical marijuana vary from state to state, most states that have legalized marijuana allow the possession of one-ounce of recreational pot. In Maine, owners can possess up to 2.5-ounces of the drug, the same amount they permit for medical marijuana patients, while those in Alaska can possess up to four.

In Massachusetts, those who possess more than the amount of pot permitted by law can see up to $500 in fines and face up to six months in jail.

POLITICAL PERCH

Democrats eating their young

Talking about kicking a guy when he's down — that is exactly what Senator Elizabeth Warren did to fellow democrat and Boston mayoral candidate Tito Jackson when she endorsed Mayor Walsh's re-election bid last Saturday at Doyle's Pub in Jamaica Plain.

This November's Boston mayoral race is down to two democratic candidates — Marty Walsh and city councilor Tito Jackson. Walsh leads in the polls by over 30 points and is clearly headed for a landslide victory. Jackson, who campaigned actively for Elizabeth Warren in 2012, is generally considered more progressive than the more centrist establishment democrat Walsh.

So why would a progressive U.S. Senator endorse an establishment democrat against an up-and-coming progressive candidate in a race the establishment candidate is virtually certain of winning by a landslide? Furthermore, why is Senator Warren involving herself in a local Massachusetts political race between two democrats and in an area where she does not live and in a race she cannot vote in?

Pure old-fashioned short-sighted political self-interest seems to be the most likely reason. Elizabeth Warren appears to be currying favor with an entrenched Boston mayor in the hopes or exchange for his endorsement and the use of his powerful get-out-the-vote political machine in her upcoming re-election campaign of November 2018.

The fact that she is throwing under the bus a fellow progressive democrat who is way down in the polls in order to help her own re-election prospects seems to be an exchange Elizabeth Warren is willing to make. Once again, we have establishment democrats disrespecting and denigrating the progressive wing of their own party in exchange for the short term self-interested goal of getting elected — apparently at any price. And establishment democrats continue to wonder in bewilderment at how they lost to Trump in 2016?

This desperate and raw political maneuver encapsulates the core and possibly fatal malady which afflicts democratic party politics, not only in Massachusetts but throughout the nation. Google the democratic party nation-wide and you will see the same troubling theme being played out everywhere.

The establishment controlled democratic party is either not able, unwilling or too corrupted, weak and frightened to address the growing progressive movement within its own ranks. Establishment democrats need to quickly figure out how to accommodate the vast number of progressives within the party or ultimately, and maybe sooner rather than later, simply fall apart — at which time a new party or political movement will take its place.

But back to our local political scene. Does Elizabeth Warren really think she can make this kind of raw political maneuver and no one will notice? Is this what they mean by hubris?

Coldly calculating the demise of a fellow progressive candidate in order to gain the organizational support of an incumbent Boston mayor will embolden republican opposition to Warren as they will see her maneuver for what it is — a sign of weakness.

Elizabeth Warren should have stayed out of the Boston mayoral race and she should win re-election on her own merits and not at the expense of vulnerable and now perhaps once trusting progressive supporters.

Staszko receives FAA's highest honor

Donald E. Staszko of Cohasset, an accomplished pilot for more than 50 years with over 32,000 hours of safe flying, has received the Federal Aviation Administration's highest honor for flight safety, skill and aviation expertise — the Wright Brothers Master Pilot Award, named after U.S. aviation pioneers, Orville and Wilbur Wright. The award, honoring 50 years of safe operations, was made at ceremonies recently at Oro restaurant on Scituate Harbor.

"This is an award we don't give lightly," said Todd Freedenberg, the FAA's New England Deputy Regional Administrator, in presenting the honor. "This is not easily earned." In accepting the award before family, colleagues, and scores of friends, Staszko — a retired U.S. Air Force Captain, an American Airlines senior pilot, and co-founder of Pro Airways — said flight safety was at the heart of his mission as a pilot. "I consider myself blessed. Unlike a car, you can't pull off the road in times of trouble."

Staszko joined the Air Force in 1970, flying during Vietnam Conflict. He later joined the Air Force Reserves as an active pilot, then joined American Airlines in 1973 as a flight engineer, and later became an International Captain, flying to Europe and Central and South America.

In 1999, he co-founded with his son Ryan, Plymouth Airport-based Pro Airways, which provides safe, efficient, private luxury travel around the world with clearance from the Secret Service, the FBI, and Capitol Police to fly high-ranking elected officials and dignitaries from foreign governments. Staszko's son Ryan, President of Pro Airways, piloted the first corporate aircraft into Reagan National Airport following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Staszko serves as Director of Operations for Pro Airways.

In his half-century of safe flying, Captain Staszko has been trained certified and typed in 23 different aircraft including: 8 light aircraft, 5 military aircraft, 6 corporate aircraft and 4 different airliners finishing his career with American Airlines on the Boeing 777. At the awards ceremony,

Staszko praised his family and staff. "It's all about family, close and extended," he said. "Family is the core of anyone's success."

Attending last week's presentation were Staszko's son Ryan, daughter Calla, a successful television writer, and his wife, Dr. Barbara O'Pray, a staff physician at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and chair of the MIT Committee on Animal Care.

$485,559 TO CITIES AND TOWNS FOR EARLY VOTING COSTS (H 8951)

House approved 154-0, Senate rejected 9-28, an amendment to a fiscal 2017 supplemental budget that closes out the books on fiscal 2017 that ended on June 30.

The amendment would reimburse cities and towns $485,559 for the costs of the new law that allowed early voting in the November 8, 2016 election. Early voting begins 10 business days before any primary or general election and ends two days before the election.

Amendment supporters said that this new law is an unfunded mandate forced upon cities and towns. They argued the budgets of cities and towns are tight and reimbursement of this money is important to them.

Amendment opponents said they support reimbursing cities and towns but argued this amendment would be amending the fiscal year 2018 budget and adding the funds through that vehicle. They argued that the purpose of the supplemental budget was to close out fiscal year 2017, not add funds to the fiscal year 2018 budget.

FUNDING FOR SUBSTANCE USE PREVENTION (H 8951)

House 47-108, rejected an amendment providing funding for substance use prevention and treatment programs from the revenue generated by the 20 percent tax on future marijuana sales in the state. The funding would be the lesser of $30 million or 15 percent of the total tax revenue. A portion of that revenue would then be distributed on a per-pupil basis, to the public schools to provide substance abuse education, prevention, intervention and professional development and training.

Amendment supporters said that without this funding, these programs are not guaranteed any money from the marijuana revenue. Instead, the decision of whether to fund these programs and how much to fund them would be made annually by the Legislature. They argued that the guaranteed annual funding of these programs is important to the effort to combat the opioid epidemic.

Amendment opponents said that they support the need for more opiate treatment resources, but argued that earmarking specific dollar amounts before the marijuana law is even implemented and before any revenue is generated, would be premature. They said there is no doubt that the House leadership is committed to funding these programs.

(A "Yes" vote is for the funding. A "No" vote is against it.)

BAN BUMP STOCKS - HOUSE VERSION (H 8951)

House 152-3, approved an amendment that supporters say would ban the sale, purchase or ownership of "bump stock" devices for weapons. Opponents of the amendment disagree and say that the wording of the bill is vague and that the words bump stock do not appear anywhere in the bill.

Bump stocks are devices that are attached to rifles, shotguns or firearms, other than a magazine, to increase the weapon's rate of fire and mimic a fully automatic weapon that can fire hundreds of shots in succession. The measure was filed in response to the recent massacre in Las Vegas where the shooter used 12 of these devices, allowing him to shoot, kill and injure more victims. Violators under this new law would be sentenced to between three and 20 years in prison.

"This legislation will ensure that no one in Massachusetts can legally possess a 'bump stock,' a device designed to increase the deadliness of these already deadly weapons," said the amendment's sponsor Rep. David Linsky (D-Natick). "These devices were created by gun manufacturers as a workaround of the federal law banning the sale and possession of automatic weapons, and there is absolutely no place for them in a civilized society."

"While we cannot bring those precious lives back, today's bump stock ban prevents another tragedy from taking place in Massachusetts, and builds on our progress promoting sensible gun safety in the commonwealth," said House Ways and Means chairman Jeffrey Sánchez (D-Boston).

"The issue I have with this legislation is that the words 'bump stock' was nowhere to be found in the final language," said Rep. Donald Berthiaume (R-Spencer), noting that the language was ambiguous. "Of course, I would vote to ban bump stocks if that was the real intent of this amendment. He argued that an important issue like this should not be attached to a supplemental budget but rather "should have gone through the committee hearing process and then to the House and Senate like every other legislative proposal."

"It is a poorly drafted and vaguely worded amendment," echoed Rep. Peter Durant (R-Spencer). "While I don't think it is unreasonable to prevent people from getting devices that turn their semi-automatic weapon into an automatic weapon, this amendment has the effect of making any modification to a firearm that could conceivably increase the rate of fire illegal and subject you to at least three years in prison. Simply making a bolt action rifle slide easier, and therefore work faster could be determined illegal." Durant noted that the interpretation of this law will be left to un-elected state bureaucrats who can change depending on the administration in the corner office."

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment. A "No" vote is against it.)

BAN BUMP STOCKS - SENATE VERSION (S 2177)

Senate 38-0, approved its own version of an amendment banning the sale, purchase or ownership of "bump stock" devices for weapons and classifying them under the same law that governs machine guns. The punishment for violating the law would be the same as it is for machine guns - 18 months to life in prison. The Senate version of the bill used the words "bump stock" so unlike the House, there were no charges that the Senate language was vague.

"This amendment is a necessary and appropriate response to the dangers inherent in these deadly devices," said the sponsor of the amendment Sen. Cynthia Creem (D-Newton). "The horror of the mass shootings in Las Vegas is unfortunately just the latest incident which calls out for the adoption of more sensible gun laws both here and nationally."

"Too many parents have had to bury their children, too many movie-goers have had a fun night out turn into a nightmare and too many Americans fear for their safety and the safety of their families," said Sen. Eric Lesser (D-Longmeadow). "It is time for us to step up and say we will not tolerate this senseless killing anymore -- or the ease with which it is carried out."

HANDICAPPED PARKING (S 2168)

Senate 37-0, approved and sent to the House legislation cracking down on the misuse of handicapped parking placards including increasing the period of license suspension for wrongful use or display of a placard from 30 to 60 days for a first offense and from 90 to 120 days for a second offense.

Other provisions include allowing the Registry of Motor Vehicles to revoke a handicapped plate or parking placard if it finds that the person was ineligible or that a placard was obtained falsely; prohibiting the obstruction of the expiration date or placard number and subjecting an offender to a $50 fine; prohibiting making a false statement on an application for a placard and imposing a fine of $500 for a first offense and $1,000 for subsequent offenses; and prohibiting falsely making, stealing or forging a placard and subjecting an offender to escalating fines or imprisonment based upon the number of documents involved.

Supporters said it is time to crack down on these offenders who are taking spaces that should be used by a handicapped person. They noted a recent report by the Inspector General revealed widespread abuse of these placards including more than 300 cars in downtown Boston using placards issued to other people.

They noted that many placards still in use belonged to people who had died and said the placards can be used to park all day at most metered spaces, resulting in millions of dollars in lost meter fees to cities and towns.

"The misuse of handicapped parking placards robs municipalities of much-needed revenues and prevents persons with disabilities from finding accessible parking," said the bill's sponsor Sen. Eileen Donoghue (D-Lowell). "This bill will benefit both disabled individuals and local governments."

(A "Yes" vote is for the bill.)

ALSO UP ON BEACON HILL

PUBLIC SAFETY LEGISLATION - The Committee on Public Safety and Homeland Security held a hearing on 25 bills including:

PRIMARY ENFORCEMENT OF SEAT BELTS LAWS (H 1304) - Allows police officers to issue tickets for seat belt violations even if the driver is not stopped for another violation as required under current law.

Other provisions prevent officers from searching the vehicle or occupants solely because of the seat belt violation and prohibit a seat belt violation from resulting in a surcharge on motor vehicle insurance premiums.

Drivers and passengers over the age of 16 who violate the law would be fined $50. The driver would also be fined an additional $50 for each passenger between the ages of 12 and 16 who is not wearing a seatbelt.

Supporters said states that go from secondary to primary enforcement see a 12 to 15 percent increase in seat belt use. They argued the bill will save lives, reduce injuries and save millions of dollars in medical bills.

Opponents said this is another example of unnecessary government intrusion and argued people should have the personal freedom to make their own decisions. They expressed concern that primary enforcement will result in racial profiling and more minorities being pulled over for suspected violations of the law.

HANDS-FREE PHONES ONLY (H 1233) - Prohibits drivers from using a hand-held cell phone or other device to make a call, use the device's camera or access social media. The measure allows drivers to use only a hands-free phone.

Use of a hand-held phone would be permitted in emergencies including if the vehicle was disabled; medical attention or assistance was required; police, fire or other emergency services were necessary for someone's personal safety; or a disabled vehicle or an accident was present on a roadway.

Violators would be fined $500 for a first offense, $1,000 for a second offense and $1,500 for a third and subsequent offense.

Supporters said that the bill would save lives and prevent accidents. They noted that the measure does not ban cell phone use but simply requires the use of hands-free ones. They pointed to accidents, deaths and injuries involving hand-held cell phones.

Some opponents said that the restriction is another example of government intrusion into people's cars and lives. Others noted that there are already laws on the books prohibiting driving while distracted.

During the week of October 9-13, the House met for a total of four hours and 44 minutes and Senate met for a total of six hours and 24 minutes.

SCOUT

Mulhern said he had to learn one lesson the hard way: drilling metal is no picnic.

As he continued to assemble the proposed practice field, Mulhern discovered drilling through metal was more difficult than he had anticipated.

This led him to significantly revamp his approach to the project, but ultimately averted any further setbacks in completing the structure.

Mulhern utilized a number of skills he had learned with the Boy Scouts to help him execute the project including his woodworking, personal management, and first aid merit badges among others.

The final product is 12-feet-by-12-feet with foam tiles lining the base of the practice field.

Per Mrs. Humphrey's request, Mulhern made the structure easy to transport, choosing one-by-12 wood panels as opposed to the larger two-by-12 option. When stored, the field can be as small as 3-feet-by-4 feet in size.

Although scouts have until their 18th birthday to complete their Eagle Scout project, Mulhern said he wrapped up before the college application process to help boost his resume when applying. Mulhern has applied to seven different colleges and universities where he hopes to continue his pursuit of knowledge, especially in the field of computers and robotics.

Before leaving the Cohasset public school system, Mulhern will pass down his programming know-how to one or more of his successors. Currently, six different students have volunteered. Mulhern hopes that his efforts will leave a lasting impression on both the program and the school.

"I hope that [the practice field] can be used for future generations," said Mulhern. "After I'm gone, I hope that it can be used for quite a while."

'Edible Arrangements' brought back to Deer Hill students by popular demand

This week members of the Community Garden Club of Cohasset, under the direction of Tania McCann, taught Deer Hill students how to create an attractive edible arrangement using an apple "vase", edible greens, fruits and vegetables.

This activity has been voted most popular with students in the past, and this month was no exception.

For many years the Community Garden Club has carried on an active monthly program encouraging students to learn more about their natural environment, caring for plants, shrubs and trees and creating pleasing arrangements to enjoy at home or give as gifts to family and friends.

Former Club President, Lee Jenkins, recalls that the Junior Gardeners have helped to maintain the Deer Hill Courtyard which is used for a number of activities for all Deer Hill students. There is no question that this after-school program makes learning fun!

SAVE THE DATE!

The monthly meeting of the Community Garden Club will take place on Tuesday, Oct. 24th, at Second Congregational Church, 43 Highland Ave. Coffee and refreshments at 9 a.m., followed by a brief business meeting and a program "Heirloom and Native Plants...A Living History."

Speaker John Forti will explain and explore the significance of heirloom open pollinated plants for gardens that inspire a sense of time and place. If you are considering joining our Club, please attend next Tuesday.

Junior Gardener Brothers, Liam and Conner Thornton are hard at work.

Giving jars for Hurricane Relief

This weekend, Oct. 21 & 22, you will see Cohasset Girl Scouts throughout our village fundraising for Hurricane Relief. Their goal is to send a percentage of the money directly to Girl Scouts of Texas and Puerto Rico and a percentage to The American Red Cross. A little change can go a long way.

With your family, you can create a Giving Jar. It can be just a simple jar or can, or you can decorate it and make it your own. Walk around the house and collect whatever random coins maybe laying around. Look by the laundry, in the sofa, in the car or anywhere you think loose change can collect. With younger kids, make it a family fun scavenger hunt.

This weekend come to the many places the Girl Scouts will be and deposit that change into a larger collecting bin. Let the Girl Scouts take photos of the unique Giving Jars. Next week we will post some photos of Giving Jars and total money raised for Hurricane Relief. These jars can be used throughout the season for other ways to give.

On Saturday, Oct. 21, and Sunday, Oct. 22, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Girl Scouts will be at Stop and Shop, Buttonwoods, Walgreens and in the village. They will be at the Recycling Center on Sunday. Help those families that lost everything during hurricanes Harvey & Irma. Cohasset Girl Scouts

Getting the hook

Abington hook and ladder touchdown sinks Skippers, next up a big trip to Carver

By Chris McDaniel
cmcdaniel@wickedlocal.com

The Abington High football team celebrated Halloween early on Thursday Oct. 12, using a little trickery to get a big treat at Cohasset's expense.

The Green Wave took a late fourth-quarter lead over the Skippers with a 2-point conversion on a halfback pass following an 80-yard touchdown on a hook and ladder.

Abington eventually pulled out a 21-14 South Shore League Tobin Division win.

After moving the ball with ease on an 11-play, 67-yard opening drive, Abington's offense stalled for the next two-plus quarters, compiling just three first downs until the hook and ladder.

Following a Cohasset touch-back, Abington quarterback Jack

That it would be impossible to forget was a given. Those who returned this year to Cohasset High's boys soccer team, then, were left with a choice: Dwell on it, or move on from it.

The response has been pretty clear. The Skippers, who were 12 seconds away from defeating Monson for the Division 4 state championship last year, are 15-0-1 this season.

"I think I'm speaking for most of our team when I say (that 3-2 loss, on a goal with seven seconds left in overtime) is always in the back of our head when we're playing," senior co-captain Grant Guempel said after Wednesday's (Oct. 11) 2-0 victory over Carver clinched Cohasset's fourth straight South Shore League Tobin Division title.

"The last seconds can change a game, just like that, so we're always thinking about how to stay strong the whole game ... We're

Field hockey qualifies for tournament

By Shaun Galvin

The Cohasset High School field hockey team is back in the MIAA Tournament again, clinching their spot with a 4-0 victory over Carver Thursday Oct. 12.

In the clincher, sophomore Maddie Donovan led the way with two goals.

Scoring single goals were Coveney and senior Lauren Cunning.

The win over Carver was a good one on the heels of a tough 2-1 loss to Dennis Yarmouth a day before.

Senior Olivia Coveney scored a goal for Cohasset with 21 minutes left in the game assisted by senior Elle Hansen but it was not enough as D-Y hung on for the win.

Friday October 13 the Lady Skippers hosted a Hanover team that has been playing well recently and ended up with a 6-0 win.

Fechter birdie barrage and late comeback lead Skippers past Mashpee

Senior captain Jack Fechter set the tone early for the Cohasset boys golf team against Mashpee on Monday at the challenging New Seabury Country Club in a match that decided whether the Skippers would get a piece of the South Shore League title after losing to the Falcons at home earlier this season.

Fechter shot a one- over 37 with four birdies including a Tiger Woods like low slicing 7 iron around a tree and under a branch from 160 yards on the difficult fifth hole to two feet for a tap in three, setting the team up for a 145-127 win.

Maguire completed a pass to Kyle Rogers, who ran a curl route and lateraled the ball to Mark Kilmain. Kilmain, who was running a wheel route out of the backfield, was off to the races after the pitch and reached the end zone on an 80-yard trot to pull Abington within one (14-13) with 3:46 left in the fourth quarter.

On the 2-point conversion, Justin Keleher completed a half-back pass to Will Klein in traffic to take a 15-14 lead.

"We've always been what I would say is an aggressive team," said Abington coach Jim Kelliher of the trick play calls. "We just said let's go after it."

"That was just a well executed play," said Cohasset coach Pete Afanasiw of the hook and ladder. "They tried to run it earlier in the first half and the kid dropped it. This time, they ran it to perfection. Our guys, I don't want to say they got flustered, but the emotion kind of took us out of our element and what we were trying to do."

Cohasset went three-and-out on the ensuing drive, but on an attempted fourth-down punt, a low snap allowed Abington's Steve Glavin and Cam Smith to tackle the Skippers' punter on the Cohasset 11 to force a turnover on downs. Kilmain scored on a 3-yard run to give Abington a 21-14 lead with 1:00 remaining.

the touchdown, denied a Green Wave 2-point conversion to keep it a one-score game. Following the kickoff, the Skippers threw four consecutive incomplete passes to seal the Abington win.

Cohasset (2-4, 1-2) heads to Carver tonight (2-4, 0-3) needing a win to keep its playoff hopes alive.

"We're onto Carver," Afanasiw said after the game. "We've got to take care of Carver if we want to have a shot at making the playoffs. Hopefully we'll be able to take care of business and do that, then maybe lock horns with these guys again. That would be nice."

On the second play of the second half, Cohasset recovered an Abington muffed handoff at the Green Wave 43.

Senior Noah Froio (17 carries, 56 yards) capped the ensuing 10-play drive with a 1-yard touchdown and junior Clifford Ward's second PAT gave Cohasset a 14-7 lead with 4:41 remaining in the third quarter.

Cohasset tied the game at 7 in the second quarter on a five-play, 41-yard drive that was capped with a 28-yard touchdown run by senior Cal Osten (13 carries, 95 yards) on a fullback dive.

"It's unfortunate," Afanasiw said of the loss. "I thought we played pretty evenly with them, if not outplayed them for some portions of the game."

While Afanasiw wasn't happy to lose, he was pleased with his team's effort.

"I told them I was proud of their effort," Afanasiw said. "I thought we outplayed them minus one or two plays. They executed when they critically needed to and we did not. I thought it was pretty unfortunate. We played evenly with them and even outplayed them for good portions of the game."

Carver has had some troubles of its own this season, with losses to Mashpee (43-21), Rockland (41-14), Abington (35-0) and Hull (35-21) Friday Oct. 13.

really trying to do new things, to keep that from happening this year."

Wednesday's win over the young (no seniors), determined Crusaders (5-5-0) proved how serious the Skippers are about playing until time expires. Carver came to Cohasset to keep the Skippers from scoring, and was nearly perfect in each half. The hosts, however, got a goal from junior Chris Longo with just over three minutes left in the first half, and closed out their 10th league win on senior co-captain Andrew Sullivan's goal with less than two minutes to go in regulation.

"I think both halves were about three minutes too long," cracked coach Mark Alessandri, whose Crusaders can still secure a Div. 4 South Sectional berth over their final five games. "It's just a situation where (Cohasset) has so much quality coming in, such strong numbers, that it wears you down. You've got to be able to concentrate for 80 minutes."

The Skippers had the same idea.

"We had to really be patient, very disciplined, not get frustrated," coach Jim Willis said. "We had most of the possession, but it's a matter of not getting stuck in a game of keep-away, and looking for opportunities to attack."

Cohasset knows it will face similar strategies once it enters the post-season. The Skippers are learning that, despite the loss of graduated stars like defender Liam O'Connell and All-State midfielder Mathias Loft, they have the personnel to push through.

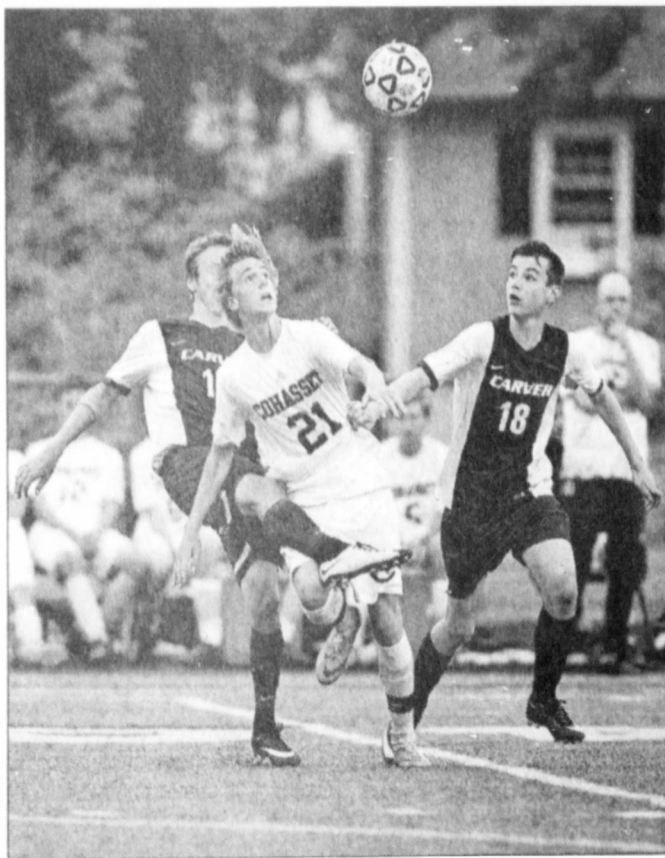

"Every year (underclassmen) see the seniors leaving, and they think, 'How are we going to replace them?'" Willis said. "They don't realize they're going to replace them, because they're going to get older and stronger and better."

Guempel, who chased down several runs by Carver's Cole Berry and Dominic Craig, has stepped into O'Connell's role. Senior co-captain Cam Pattison, who sent Longo in for the only goal of the first half (Pattison's team-leading 14th assist and 10th point), has replaced four-year starter Loft.

Seniors Luca Curatola, Michael Legge, Cam Ritz and sophomore Ben Smith have solidified the outside of the back end, and while junior transfer Michael McDougald couldn't add to his team-high 15 goals, he fed Sullivan for the late insurance goal.

The Skippers, who got their sixth shutout from sophomore keeper Ian Appleby (he's subbing for junior Ian Dunkelberger, who has a broken wrist), have two games left against Abington Oct. 23 and at Duxbury Oct. 30 to close the season.

The Skippers had a showdown with fellow league power Norwell Wednesday Oct. 18 and while they didn't win, they were able to continue their unbeaten streak with a 0-0 draw.

Cohasset followed the Carver victory with wins over Div. 2 Falmouth Saturday Oct. 14 and Mashpee Monday Oct. 16.

Against Falmouth, senior Cam Pattison led the way with two goals and Longo had a goal. Senior Jay Frederick had two assists and Andrew Sullivan had an assist as the Skippers beat the Clippers 3-1.

In the 2-0 win over Mashpee, Longo and Curatola scored the goals.

Mity Hill scored points at No. 3 but lost the Stableford scoring by one to Henry Griffiths.

Brad Albanese lost a close match at No. 4 to Taylor Mader.

With the losses by Flagler and Hill, a small miracle was needed for the Skippers to pull out a win, and T.J. Coffee and Shane Murphy came through.

Coffee nipped Mike Wilson 5-4 and it came down to the last match.

Sophomore Shane Murphy shot the lowest round of his short competitive career firing a 39 and taking a 9-0 win over Phil Adams to turn the tables and secure a piece of the South Shore League title for the Skippers.

A 147-63 win over Rockland

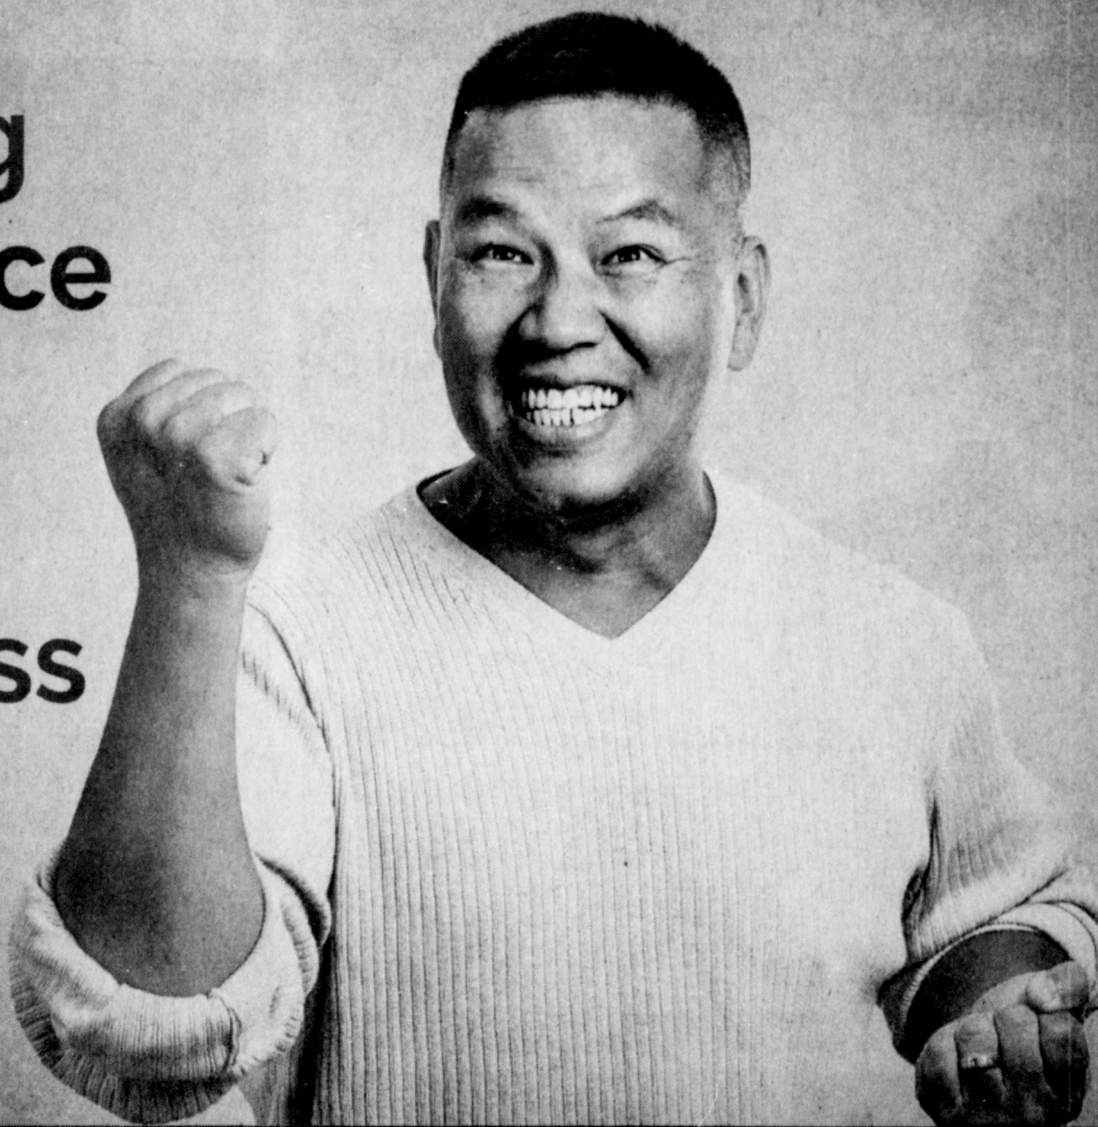

Oct. 11 qualified the Skippers for the State team tournament.

In their next four matches after Rockland, Cohasset lost 125.5-122.5 to Norwell, beat Mashpee lost 270-300 to Scituate and beat East Bridgewater Wed. Oct. 18.

The Skippers finished the regular season 10-4.

The Skippers head to the League and State tournaments next week on Monday and Tuesday.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries appearing in this section are paid for and written by families, often through the services of a funeral director.

James A. Mullen

COHASSET — James A. Mullen, aged 89, a longtime resident of Cohasset, husband of Olive (Tibolt) Mullen, died peacefully on October 5, 2017.

The son of the late Edith and William Mullen, brother of the late Edith Simpson and Cynthia Mullen, Jim was brought up in Milton and served in the Army from 1946-48, mostly in Korea, including playing as a trombonist in the XXIV Corps Army Band.

He entered Providence College at 16 and graduated as valedictorian before getting his PhD summa cum laude from Harvard in Applied Physics in 1955. In his dissertation, he invented the formula for measuring multi-fractional wave diffusion. From 1955 until 1992 he worked at Raytheon's Research Division, specializing in radar and sonar, including work on many projects then classified such as the Patriot Missile Guidance System. In 1969 he became only the second person Raytheon named as Consulting Scientist, their highest research level.

He published 34 papers and spoke at conferences in the United States and Europe. In 1974 the IEEE (the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers) recognized the "extraordinary quality" of his work in making him one of their rare Fellows.

Jim had many amateur interests which he pursued with seriousness and pleasure. Throughout his life, Jim read widely and deeply, particularly in military history. Music was another lifelong passion: He was the bass trombonist with the Brockton Symphony for 22 years. He also marched with the Satuit Band and the Cohasset Rusty Skippers. He played with the Milton Band for much of his life, including a period where three generations of Mullens played together.

In his younger days, he sailed an inventively mended Herreshoff S-boat. He and Olive were members of the Cohasset Golf Club for many years. In retirement, he continued to consult professionally, while also participating in the Cohasset Historical Society (where he served on the Board of Directors), the Civil War Round Table, and the Old Goats. A train buff, he was an energetic advocate for returning train service to the South Shore. He and Olive travelled widely, frequently with their children. The most genial of men, he enjoyed long conversations with his family and friends, but nothing gave him more pleasure than music at home, whether he led the family in Austrian recorder music or listened from his favorite chair to his wife and daughters playing the piano and singing.

Jim and his beloved wife Olive, whom music brought together, were married for 56 years. Jim is also survived by the four daughters he cheerfully encouraged and their families: Alexandra and Roger Kimball of Norwalk, CT, Elaine and David Philbrick of Duxbury, Diane Mullen of Hingham, and Celia and Rob Nolan of Hull. The exploits of his eight grandchildren brought him much amusement: James and Elizabeth Kimball, Sydney and Adrian Philbrick, Aidan and Eva O'Sullivan, and Beatrice and Desmond Nolan.

A private Mass was held in the parish in which he married and raised his children, St. Anthony's in Cohasset. Friends are invited to attend a memorial gathering on November 1 at 11 am at the Parish House at St. Anthony's Church.

In lieu of flowers, donations in his memory may be made to: St. Anthony's Church, 129 South Main Street, Cohasset, MA 02025, or the American Heart Association, PO Box 417005, Boston, MA 02241-7005.

For more information on Jim's life or to leave thoughts and memories for Jim's family, please search Memorials at memorialwebsites.legacy.com for James Mullen which will continue to be updated with photographs, anecdotes, and more.

explained he had been distracted when he looked at his radio, was cited for following too closely on a state highway. There were no injuries and neither car had to be towed.

MVA

On Saturday afternoon (Oct. 14) a 2015 Nissan, operated by a 50-year-old Cohasset man, was rear-ended at the top of Sohler Street by a 2017 Volkswagen, operated by a 19-year-old Cohasset woman. The Nissan was hit from behind after it had braked due to seeing no lull in the oncoming traffic after moving forward a few feet before attempting to turn right onto Route 3A.

The Cohasset woman was cited for failure to use caution when entering a state highway.

Erratic operation

A cell caller reported a blue 2005 Jaguar with a vanity plate was all over the road on Route 3A around 6:50 p.m. on Saturday (Oct. 14).

An officer on patrol saw the Jaguar stopped at the green light on 3A at the train station and saw that the vehicle's right front tire was shredded and smoking. The officer turned around and saw the Jaguar drive off at about 20 mph with smoke and sparks flying.

The car finally stopped just south of the intersection of Routes 3A and 228 where he was administered a series of field sobriety tests which he did not successfully complete.

John H. Cunningham, 72, of 21A Pinckney St., Boston was arrested and initially charged with operating under the influence of alcohol; failure to stop for a police officer; driving to endanger and failure to drive in marked lanes.

At the station, Cunningham passed the breathalyzer test so the charge of drunken driving was dropped. He had been attending a wedding in Cohasset and told police that he had a medical condition that may have contributed to his erratic driving and behavior.

Protective custody

A 25-year-old Melrose man, who had been attending a wedding at the Red Lion Inn, was placed in protective custody after a caller reported a man in a suit and with a backpack was screaming in front of the South Shore Art Center around 8:15 p.m. on Sunday (Oct. 15). He was placed into protective custody for his own safety and was later released to his mother, police said.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HOROSCOPE

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're eager to Ram headfirst into that new project. But before you do, find out why some of your colleagues might not appear to be as gung-ho about it as you are.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) All that dedicated hard work you've been putting in pays off better than you expected. So go ahead, reward yourself with something befitting a beauty-loving Bovine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good time to take on that new challenge. And if your self-confidence is sagging, instead of telling yourself why you can't do it, list all the reasons why you can.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) This is one time when you might want to put some distance between you and the job at hand. It will give you a better perspective on what you've done and still need to do.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Resist that occasional lapse into Leonine laziness that sometimes overtakes the Big Cat. Don't cut corners. Do the job right at this time, or you might have to redo it later.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You know how you like to do things. And that's fine. But watch that you don't impose your methods on others. A current financial crunch soon eases.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Someone might try to take advantage of your generosity. But before your sensitivity toward others overwhelms your good sense, check his or her story out carefully.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your strong Scorpion sense of fairness lets you see all sides of a dispute. Continue to remain impartial as you help each person work through his or her particular grievance.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Trust your keen Sagittarian insight to help you see through an offer that might not be all it claims. A closer look could reveal disturbing elements. CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With the Goat exhibiting a more dominant aspect these days, you could find it easier to make your case in front of even the most skeptical audience.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Take things nice and easy as you continue to build up your energy reserves for a big change that's coming with the full Hunter's Moon on Oct. 29.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Recent news from someone you trust could help you make an important decision. Also, be prepared to confront an upcoming change in a personal situation.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be firm in your own views, but also flexible enough to welcome the views of others.
